Taoism is the practice of learning how to remove the extremes of judgment that create emotional reactions and lead us away from observing the beauty of the unfolding moment. Tao is a way of seeing the human journey from the eyes of nature and it is always 'just so.'. All that we are is perfect - warts and all.

The Tao, or The Way The Tao is central to all Chinese philosophy and religion. It is often translated as the "way" or "path" - or the way of all things. The symbol that most accompanies it is the yin/yang symbol because the polarities of yin and yang form its essence and dynamism.

The Tao, or The Way - world religions professor

"The Way" The central concept in Taoism is that of Tao, the way. The Taoist saw nature as an ever-dynamic, intrinsically undifferentiated void, a "vast and timeless ocean of spotless purity upon which, through the interplay of dark and light, a myriad illusions play like ever-changing cloud formations or restless waves..."

Taoist interpretations. See also: Taoism. [Tao] means a road, path, way; and hence, the way in which one does something; method, doctrine, principle. The Way of Heaven, for example, is ruthless; when autumn comes 'no leaf is spared because of its beauty, no flower because of its fragrance'.

Tao - Wikipedia

I prefer the way of the Tao is reversal because the Tao is fundamentally about virtue, power and what we might call authenticity. Thus all that is presented as permanent will be revealed as impermanent, all that is presented as true will be revealed as false and all that is presented as virtuous will be revealed as fraud.
